

Availability of Student Evaluation of Teaching Results (for Provost Digest)

Beginning with the current Spring 2018 semester, Lehman will make available the numerical results of the Student Evaluation of Teaching and Learning (SETL), on the restricted Lehman 360 website, which requires a valid Lehman username and password. Results will only be available to questions to which at least seven (7) responses were submitted, and not to open-ended questions. Students will receive access to the information after the complete reports have been sent to instructors and department chairs.

Instructors play a vital role in motivating students to respond to their surveys. Higher response rates seem to result from instructors reminding students of the opportunity to provide their course evaluation. Please encourage your students to participate in SETL when the survey opens on May 2. It is in the interest of instructors and students that as many as possible participate to ensure that the results are truly representative.

Availability of Student Evaluation of Teaching Results (Student Affairs Digest)

Beginning with the current Spring 2018 semester, Lehman will make available the numerical results of the Student Evaluation of Teaching and Learning (SETL), on the restricted Lehman 360 website, which requires a valid Lehman username and password. Results will only be available to questions to which at least seven (7) responses were submitted, and not to open-ended questions. Students will receive access to the spring semester reports in June 2018.

Please be sure to participate in SETL when the survey opens on May 2. Your course evaluation is one of the ways that Lehman College improves teaching and learning. It is in the interest of instructors and students that as many of you as possible participate to ensure that the results are truly representative.