08/20/2021	08/20/2021	08/20/2021

The following rules shall apply to the payment of teaching and non-teaching adjuncts working in one or more summer session periods:

- All adjunct hours from the beginning of the Summer Session on May 27th through the end of the summer session(s) on August 20th are to be considered summer session. Adjuncts who are eligible for a movement in the salary schedule on July 1 should receive the appropriate rate increase as per schedule, even if the date falls within a particular summer session.
- Colleges should choose actual adjunct pay dates from the four dates listed above which most closely adhere to the college's summer session schedules. It is not necessary to use all four payroll dates or to spread the pay due any employee over four pay periods. The college should pay every employee promptly, and whenever possible, distribute the payments over at least three pay periods.
- Please advise academic department chairs and appropriate faculty of the campus specific deadlines to hire summer adjuncts and to provide all required information to campus human resources for timely payroll processing.
- Please advise academic departments to notify adjuncts of applicable pay dates.
- No employee should be paid before they have started to work.
- Colleges must ensure due diligence for completion of work assignments and attendance by adjuncts during the summer session.
- Teaching and non-teaching adjuncts may be paid in increments of one half-hour.

Please share this memo with your college's academic officers, budget directors, labor designees, and any other appropriate group who should be aware of the Summer 2021 adjunct pay dates. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated.
