

J Journal

Call for Submissions

New Writing on Justice

Dear CUNY Writers:

J Journal: New Writing on Justice is the Pushcart-winning litmag housed at John Jay. In our nearly ten years of publishing creative work within the justice theme, we've featured cops, inmates, profs and professionals in the CJ fields, and plenty of new and well-published writers.

We've included CUNY writers in the past but want to hold this tenth anniversary issue for CUNY writers alone. This all-CUNY issue will be published in fall 2017.

J Journal seeks new writing: fiction, poetry, creative nonfiction (1st person narrative, personal essay, memoir). Most of the work we publish gets to justice tangentially, but we also welcome work that takes on crime, criminal justice, law and law enforcement. As a literary project, however, J Journal is less likely to publish straightforward genre fiction. We encourage writers to approach the justice issue from any angle.

We're very much looking forward to reading our colleagues' work and, with this twentieth issue, to enhancing CUNY's contribution to the arts. We welcome your submissions until June 15, 2017.

Email up to three poems or up to 6000 words of fiction/nonfiction to:
submissionsjjournal@gmail.com
(please write CUNY Issue in the subject line).

All best,
Adam Berlin and Jeffrey Heiman

jjournal.org