4. Rationale:

In December 2025, curriculum change forms were submitted for the B.A. in Accounting to formally add CED 201 and CED 301 and update certain program requirements. During the preparation of these forms, BBA 303 and BBA 403 were identified for replacement by ECO 302 and BBA 402. However, BBA 303 and BBA 403 were never part of the B.A. major requirements; therefore, no replacement should have been made.

As part of the same process, requirements from the B.S. in Accounting were inadvertently copied into the B.A. curriculum. These included ENW 300 – Business Writing, six credits in Finance from BBA 207, BBA 308, and/or BBA 310, and six credits in Quantitative Methods for Business from ECO 302 and BBA 402. These requirements were not previously part of the B.A. program and were not intended to be added.

The proposed change corrects these administrative errors by removing the incorrectly added requirements and returning the B.A. curriculum to the structure in effect before December 2025, with only the approved additions of CED 201 and CED 301 retained. This correction will ensure that the published curriculum accurately reflects the intended degree requirements and prevents students from being required to complete courses that were not approved as part of the B.A. major.
