Katrina Yardbrough researched Medical Billing and Coding programs for months before she decided that Lehman College would be her best option to advance her career. After discovering programs through other colleges were not affordable, she applied for and received an ASSET Scholarship. In her own words, “I applied, wrote up my statement, and I got it. That scholarship was an incredible help to me. I wrote from my heart, I got personal, and I think that’s why I got it.”

With Lehman’s support, she was able to get her AAPC certification, the number one name in the industry. With her new certification, she was empowered to take control of her healthcare career. Now, she works for a nonprofit that provides services for intellectually and developmentally challenged individuals. Her family provided the inspiration to return to school in pursuit of a certificate.

“I wanted to show my girls that no matter how many setbacks you’ve had, you must educate yourself. As a teenage parent who dropped out of high school and got my GED, through taking multiple continuing education courses I was able to show them that you can always strive for more.”

✔ RESEARCHED Medical Billing & Coding Programs
✔ SECURED an ASSET Scholarship for 50% of tuition
✔ APPLIED herself and passed AAPC test
✔ EMPOWERED to take control of her career!
Dear Lehman Community,

In February we opened the Lehman College Nursing Education, Research and Practice Center. This state-of-the-art facility is a testament to our commitment to excellence in nursing education and practice, as we work to help close the gap on the estimated 40,000 nurses New York needs by 2030. We are proud to be part of the CUNY system that trains nearly half of new nurses each year, with 70% of our graduates coming from historically underserved groups.

With CUNY leading the way, this center is just one example of our state and city working together to invest in New York’s public education and health infrastructure. It aligns with our broader mission of promoting health equity and representation, exemplified by our graduate’s contributions during the pandemic and beyond.

As we celebrate this great milestone, let us remember the transformative role of Lehman College in tackling health inequity. Through the many affordable Continuing Education certificate programs that we offer, as well as opportunities to continue your education in one of our healthcare degree programs, Lehman is proud to promote social mobility by providing a first-rate education to our students, regardless of means or background.

Muchos éxitos!
Fernando Delgado, Ph.D., President

Norma De La Rosa graduated in June, 2019 from the Lehman College Certified Clinical Medical Assistant program. Her transition to a career in the healthcare industry came after 13 years working as a travel agent.

As a person with a natural ability to put people at ease, and a passion for making challenging experiences easy for others, a phlebotomy certification was a logical choice. This decision led Norma to pursue an additional EKG certification through Lehman College, which has opened the door to working in many departments including cardiology and presurgical. The additional certification and the knowledge gained through her hands-on training has also given her job security and the ability to negotiate higher rates of pay.

“After applying to Mount Sinai, I finally got my dream position. I have a union job that started off at $27 per hour. I get regular breaks, vacation, and I’m well taken care of. I get to pick what I like, and pursue the areas of my work that I’m interested in. My family is so proud of me.”

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS
Q: Should I take the combined track for Medical Billing and Medical Coding or just Medical Coding?
A: If you have no work experience in the field, you need to make yourself as marketable as possible. We strongly suggest you do the combined track and earn both the Certified Professional Biller (CPB™) and Certified Professional Coder (CPC™) credentials. You will save $715 by completing a single practicum for both credentials.

Q: I already have experience in medical billing and coding. Where should I start?
A: You may request an equivalency exam to waive Medical Terminology Parts 1 and 2. If you pass the equivalency exam, you will meet the prerequisite for either Medical Billing & Insurance, Part 1 or Medical Coding, Part 1.

Q: How long and how much is the combined track?
A: In the combined medical billing and coding track, you will take classes twice a week for 18 months to complete both certifications. The tuition for the combined track is $4,725, which includes AAPC membership and two AAPC test attempts. However, you can pay for courses as you go. Does not include books or registration fees.
